"IF WE KNEW."

If we knew the we and heartache Waiting for us down the road, If our lips could taste the wormwood, If our backs could feel the load, Would we waste to-day in wishing For a time that never can be,
Would we wait in such impatience For our ships to come from sea?

Strange we never prize the music Till the sweet-voiced bird has flown; Strange that we should slight the violets Till the lovely flowers are gone, Strange that Summer skies and sunshine Never seem one-half so fair, As when Winter's snowy pinions Shake their white down in the air!
Lips from which the seal of silence None but God can roll away, Never blossomed in such beauty As adorns the month of May;
And sweet words that freight our memory,
With her beautiful perfume, Come to us in sweeter accents Through the portals of the tomb.
Let us gather up the sunbeams Lying all along our path, Let us keep the wheat and roses, Casting out the thorns and chaff, Let us find our sweetest comfort In the blessings of to-day; With a patient hand removing All the briars from our way.

Visalia Items.

From the Tulare Times of May 9.
Green peas are getting five cents per pound.
Strawberries made their appearance in our market.
New dwellings will be erected in every portion of Visalia this Summer.
Alfalfa and barley hay is being cut in many parts of the county.
Harvesting of grain will begin in earnest in a week or two.
A drunken Indian shot at Mrs. W. Sharp, in the Mussel Slough country, but fortunately did not hit her.
We were shown by Mr. T. C. Hunt, of the Exchange Hotel, some fine specimens of anthracite coal, found in the foot-hills about twenty miles from Visalia. This is quite a valuable discovery.

Curl Leaf.

A. C. Meeker, of Lodi, writing to the Stockton Leader under date of April 27th, gives the following concerning curl leaf in peaches:

"I desire, through the medium of your columns, to give for the benefit of your readers, the cause of, as well as the remedy for, the curled leaf in the peach. And I speak from a thorough experience, and know whereof I speak. The cause of the curled leaf is this: The hot sun in the Summer and Fall, during the dry season, dries the bark on the trees, so that it becomes bark-bound; and when the sap starts up in the Spring, there is no room to form a growth of wood, which is essential to the health of the tree. In consequence of the tree being bark-bound, the sap is forced up into the top of the tree, thence out into the leaves, which substance makes them grow thick and pulpy, and the sun curls them up, so that you may take them in your hand and squeeze the sap out of them. If let alone, the fruit will drop off and the tree wither and die. All this may be successfully prevented by the following process: In the Spring, when the sap first starts, take a sharp knife and slit the bark from the growth up into the branches. This must be done in the new of the moon. It will loosen the bark and give the tree a chance to grow, and the sap will not be forced into the top of the tree to such an extent as to form a curled leaf, and the tree will be healthy and the fruit better. It is not too late yet to save your fruit. When you find the leaves beginning to curl, take your knife, in the new of the moon, and slit the bark, as before stated, and in one week you may take hold of the tree and shake off the curled leaves, and the fruit will still mature. I have thus saved my fruit after it had attained a good size. A. C. MECKER, Lodi, April 27, 1874."

Grading on the Stockton and Ione Railroad has been begun.
It is against the law for boys under fifteen years of age to be on the streets of Vallejo after 9 o'clock at night.

VASQUEZ CAPTURED.

THE ROBBER SEVERELY, BUT NOT FATALLY WOUNDED.

A Party of Los Angeles Men Reap the Honor of the Capture.

Full Account of the Successful Maneuvre Which Placed the Bandit in the Hands of the Law.

If an earthquake had shaken the foundation of our city and swallowed up one-half of our places scarcely more excitement would have ensued than that which followed the announcement of the capture of Vasquez yesterday afternoon.

The City Fathers were in profound deliberation in their rooms, when there was a rush outside the door, a crowd surged about the place, and somebody said, "Vasquez is caught." The Council adjourned sine die, without ceremony.

In front of the entrance to the City Prison there was an extremely warlike display. The Sheriff's party, armed with numberless revolvers, Henry rifles, and shooting irons of various descriptions had just arrived, conveying a light spring wagon, in which was lying the man long sought for—the veritable Vasquez.

The wounded bandit was lifted upon the shoulders of four men as he lay on his litter, and borne through the crowd into the jail, where he was placed upon the floor to await medical assistance.

The circumstances of the capture are as follows: For some time past, the authorities have had a spy out observing the movements of the robber and his gang, and by this means secured authoritative information of their whereabouts. About 8 o'clock Wednesday night, D. K. Smith came into the city with information which caused the immediate fitting out by Sheriff Rowland of a party to go in pursuit. The party was made up of Under-Sheriff Albert S. Johnson, Major Mitchell, Enil Harris, Officer Hartlee, Sam-Bryant, D. K. Smith, W. E. Rodgers, and G. A. Beers, correspondent for a San Francisco paper. Starting about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, the party left the city and proceeded to the vicinity of Brea Ranch, about ten miles southwest of Los Angeles.
Making a halt in Nicholas Cañon, at a place securely sheltered from view of the house where they had reason to expect the presence of their game, they sent out scouts to reconnoitre their position. Major Mitchell, with a field glass, proceeded to a side of the mountain overlooking the house of Greek George, where unobserved he could view all that passed about the premises.

After waiting some time, he saw Vasquez approach the place, dismount and picket his horse, and then go into the house. Another man came out, and taking two horses struck for the woods. Still another came upon the premises and went within. Without waiting for further developments, Mitchell rejoined his party, and they together proceeded to complete their plan of attack. A wood-wagon, coming down the cañon about this time, was seized upon, and the occupants, two Mexicans, compelled to further the plans of the party, as will be seen, in a most valuable manner. The men, after securing their horses, sprang into the wagon-box, and there lay down, so as to be concealed from sight. Thus lodged to their satisfaction, they leveled their revolvers upon the two men on the seat in front, and under threats of instantly shooting them should they make the least sign towards giving an alarm, they drove direct for the house of Greek George.

It was an interesting position, surely —packed like sardines in a box, lying on their backs, with the sun glaring down into their faces, and jolting over the rough road. Their nerves, too, must have been at an interesting tension, as each minute brought them nearer to an expected conflict with men of such known pluck and so thoroughly armed as Vasquez and his gang. Fortunately their plan of procedure was so excellently chosen and executed that their approach was not suspected by the occupants of the house. It was a stealing a march worthy of a general in the field. Too much credit cannot be given the managers of the expedition for the wily manner in which they executed this part of the programme. Meanwhile the ostensible wagon load of wood was nearing its point of destination. When within a few yards of the house, the Sheriff's party leaped from their place of concealment and in an instant surrounded the house.

So sudden and so well guarded had been their actions, that they had arrived without raising the least suspicion as to their approach. The house was an ordinary adobe, with a frame kitchen built in the rear. Around this they quickly gathered, and had every avenue of escape cut off. As Rogers approached the door, which was slightly ajar, the inmates for the first time became aware of the presence of the pursuers. A woman within sprang to the half open door and made an effective close and bar it, but her movements were anticipated and the door made it before she had a chance to lock it. The instant ending his dinner, small single boudoir, and with a small window, not more than four feet square, and lanian eighteen feet on the outside. Hereupon his by Hartlee, from whom he was met the contents of a double-barreled shot gun, and fell to the ground. Quickly recovering, he sprang to his feet, and turning towards the west side of the house, made an effort to fly in that direction; but this time he was confronted by Beers, who lodged a shot in his shoulder from a Henry rifle. Wheeling again, he once more found himself confronted by Hartlee, who had thrown down his gun, and now covered the fugitive with his revolver. He now saw that escape was impossible, and throwing up his hands said, in English, "Don't shoot!" One other shot was fired, as he was in the act of surrendering himself, but it was all done so quickly that no intention to injure the captive is chargeable upon any one of the party. The rest of the inmates of the house were taken without any violence. While some of the party took possession of the house and its occupants, others addressed themselves to caring for the wounded robber. At first it was thought that he was mortally wounded, and this was his own belief, as he expressed it to his captors. Examination, however, showed the wounds not to be so serious as supposed. At the first moment when he raved himself up, Vasquez turned to Hartlee and said, "What's your name?" A remark so singular prompted the inquiry subsequently as to his motive in asking the question, when he said, "I wanted to know the name of a brave man. I am not a coward myself, and I like to know another brave man."

Two of the robber's confederates, inmates of the house, were taken—one a man about forty years of age, and one quite young, not more than eighteen or nineteen years old. They caused some anxiety in their capture.
Besides the three men, the Sheriff's party captured two horses—one the famous white horse of Vasquez, and one grey belonging to another of the bandits; three Henry rifles, one Spencer rifle, five six-shooters, 400 rounds of ammunition, a villainous looking dirk-knife belonging to Vasquez, and some other arms. Three saddles were also taken, two of them very fine ones, worth probably fifty dollars apiece.
The valuable gold watch and chain which was taken from C. E. Miles some time ago, was also recovered.
Vasquez said that if he had known Miles was a working man he would not have asked it of him. Probably not. When taken from the pocket of the robber, the watch did not have its chain attached, but one of heavy silver. Hearing Miles making inquiries after the missing chain, as he lay on the floor in the jail, Vasquez directed one of his attendants to look into a certain pocket and the article was produced.

When first lodged in jail, the bandit expressed some anxiety as to his safety, and had several times to be assured that no further harm would come to him. Dr. Wise was the first physician to attend the wounded man, and proceeded at once to extricate the bullets lodged in various parts of his body. Subsequently Dr. Widney arrived, and attended to bandaging the wounded parts. The man received two buck-shot wounds through the fleshy part of the left arm, between the elbow and shoulder, one through the muscle of the right arm, one in the shoulder, one in the right leg, one in the left nipple, coming out under the arm, and one shot on the left side of the neck. All were flesh wounds, and though severe, will not necessarily prove fatal. The doctors expressed their opinion that with proper treatment he will very soon recover.

It is a great wonder that he was not killed, after standing such a fire as he did, and receiving so many balls. At test accounts last night he was sleeping, and the doctors interdicted the slightest disturbance to break his rest.
He was very weak from loss of blood, but otherwise in as favorable condition as could be expected. It will doubtless be several weeks before he can be removed from his present quarters.
Concerning the general success of the expedition, we will say that it was perfect. Although a part of the band-it's party have succeeded in making their escape, still their power is broken, now that their chief is captured.
Doubtless the others will soon find the coils tightening about them, so that they will either leave the country or one by one find themselves taken into custody. At all events, yesterday was a grand day for Southern California; a day in which the majesty of the law vindicated and an effectual check placed upon outlawry in this part of the country forever. Our reports concerning the expedition have been gathered from various members of the Sheriff's party, as we have been able to interview them for a few minutes at a time. But everybody was so excited over the affair that hardly any one was able to give a clear consecutive account of the whole proceeding.
Doubtless there are some inaccuracies in our account, but in the main it is correct.

If any should still question whether the real Vasquez has been caught, they may set their doubts to rest without further quibbling. The bandit has been identified by numbers who have the best reason in the world for knowing him. Having confronted him at various times as an enemy and as a robber. Besides, he does not pretend to deny his identity, and owns that he is "in for it" finally this time.

The following is a clear and correct summary of the movements of Vasquez since the Rappetto robbery, and of the man who planned and effected his capture. After Major Mitchell's party followed and captured the band-it's camp in Tejuca Cañon, little was known of the real movements of Vasquez until some two weeks ago. A part of the time Major Mitchell was acting independent of Sheriff Rowland, but latterly the Sheriff has known all of Mitchell's operations.
We now leave Mitchell, Morse and others, whose expeditions have already been published, and take up the thread of Sheriff Rowland's plans. His mode of operation was to watch and wait, and so careful and discreet was he that his most intimate friends supposed he was giving the Vasquez matter very little attention.

THIS WAS A MISTAKE.
Rowland had a little bird who told him every movement of the bandit and his gang, and on several nights he has hidden out and reconnoitred the Vasquez camp, but on each occasion the little bird told him not to attempt the capture. This happened so often that he began to suspect the bird might be playing him. This, however, was not true, as the sequel proved—the bird telling the truth in every instance.

FALSE REPORT.
The reports that Vasquez was in the habit of visiting the house of a woman in this city, after nightfall, had no foundation in fact, but if it had been true, Rowland would have captured him, for he knew of the story and the house, and watched the interior of the woman's room night after night. It is safe to say that until to-day Vasquez has not been in this city during the past three months. Vasquez had two men constantly watching the Morse party while in this portion of the State, and no one was more thoroughly posted on the movements of Morse and Cunningham than the bandit. It was Rowland who baffled Vasquez. He was so cool, and apparently so indifferent to whether the robbers were caught or not that the bandit at times really thought he had nothing to fear from him. He was mistaken. Like Prospero's Ariel, Rowland's

LITTLE BIRD
Was obedient to his slightest command, and flew here and there and everywhere, collecting information and delivering it to its master. It told him that for the past two weeks Vasquez and his gang had made their headquarters at the house of Greek George, on the Brea Ranch, ten miles from the city, that Vasquez spent most of his days in the house, but slept at night some distance away in the open air, with his horse always saddled and his Spencer rifle by his side. It gave him an exact diagram of the house, told him in what room Vasquez slept, in what room his arms were, and the number and quality of those arms. It told him how Vasquez's horse was always kept saddled and ready for traveling in the tall weeds near to a window, through which Vasquez would jump in case of a surprise. It told him on Wednesday night that the Greek George house be at the house playing cards, but that he must not leave the city, as he was constantly under the eye of one of Vasquez's spies. Here Rowland's detective shrewdness did him good service. He quickly selected his party, detailed his instructions and continued to walk about the streets in his usual apparently unconcerned manner.
In a little time

THE VASQUEZ SPY DISAPPEARED.
His friends supposed he had got drunk and gone to some of the many houses he knew of, to sleep off his whiskey. They knew he was not in jail, for they sought him in that structure. Subsequent events proved that he did not get drunk, nor did he leave town. Rowland had shanghaied him and kept him under close guard, where his friends could not find him, until the party returned with their game from Greek George's house. As Vasquez and his three associates were taken into the jail, the spy—the man who had been sent in to watch Rowland—was also marched into the same edifice. Then it was discovered that Rowland had been watching the spy more closely than the spy had watched him. Vasquez saw that he was trapped, and how it was done. He says

HE WAS BETRAYED, And assures Sheriff Rowland that but for the treason of some friend he would not have been captured. It will be seen from the facts here detailed that Sheriff Rowland has managed the whole affair in the most masterly manner. He worked carefully and patiently, and from the time Vasquez took up his headquarters at the house of Greek George he has known his every movement. He struck the blow at the right time and in the right manner to secure a successful result.
The men he selected were of the true and tried class, and they faithfully performed the dangerous task allotted to them.

VASQUEZ SPEAKS.
This evening, while weak from loss of blood and suffering intense pain, the bandit manifested a disposition to talk with the Sheriff. He told Mr.
Rowland that he had been betrayed, and begged for the name of his betrayer. He thanked his captors for their kind treatment, and admitted that they had treated him well, and acknowledged the plan to have been well laid and admirably executed. He assured Sheriff Rowland that he had no hand in the Tres Pinos murder, and says he did not join the party until an hour after it had left the scene of the murder. This is however a little too thin. He says it was his intention to have followed Sheriff Morse back to the vicinity of San Francisco, and carrying ten thousand dollars that he knew of, hasten again to this vicinity and take rest. Sheriff Rowland has interrupted, if not indefinitely postponed the carrying out of this plan. We may add that no woman in any way assisted in the capture. Vasquez says he is too wise to trust his life in the hands of a woman.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Wm.
Slaney, which appears in this morn-ing's paper. Mr. Slaney has opened One George Brown was arrested and lodged in the guard yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. He stole a barometer valued at $10, and sold it to a pawn broker for $12.50. With the money thus raised he went on a spree, and when arrested had not a cent to bless himself with. The harness so cheaply bought by the honest pawn-broker was immediately returned to its owner (so it is said), and it is doubtful now whether the property can be recovered.

We notice the arrival in town of Messrs. Tuttle & Lee, the photographers, who have been creating such a furore in Santa Barbara by the excellence of their pictures. They design staying a few months in Los Angeles.
We have no doubt our citizens will be glad of the opportunity of securing some of their work. We understand they have taken some fine views of the scenery of Santa Barbara and vicinity, and along the row from there down. They doubt have them on exhibition in a few days, and will also take views of Los Angeles.

LETTER FROM COMPTON.

Farmer's Prospects—Tree-Planting—An Orange Grove Region—Please to come off—Etc.

EDITOR HERALD: Your welcome paper frequently brings us news of what is going on in other parts of the county, but I do not often see much about our section in its columns. Our farmers are busy, as usual, making hay, planting corn, and attending to the multifarious duties incident to their honorable calling; but this season they have taken an unusual interest in tree-planting. An impetus has been given to the planting of fruit and forest trees by the indefatigable energy of our respected fellow-townsmen, Mr. C. B. Wright, who thoroughly understands the "tree business." In fact, what he doesn't know about trees is not worth knowing; and, being a straightforward, honorable dealer, he has had great success in taking orders, having sold between 20,000 and 30,000 trees this season, mostly of orange and semi-tropical fruits, from the nurseries of Thos. A. Garey, of Los Angeles. Many men neglect planting out an orchard, or do not think of it, until some live man comes and shows them the advantages of so doing; then they give their orders, and in a short time they have made an investment that adds immensely to the

VALUE OF THEIR FARMS.

Having recently visited Richland and adjacent country, I was surprised to see the improvements making there in buildings, cultivating farms, and particularly in planting trees. At the present rate of progress, the name of the village of Orange could be appropriately changed to "Orange Grove," in a very short time, for it will soon be beyond a doubt, one vast grove of orange, lemon, lime, almond and other fruit trees. It is, indeed, a beautiful place, and has a most brilliant future. But I commenced to write about our town and vicinity, when my ideas were "switched off" toward Richland. I will stay at home now, and

STICK TO MY TEXT.

The people here are going to have a grand musical festival—that means ice cream, music, strawberries and cream, and all the luxuries of the season in one, grand entertainment, to come off on the 20th instant. Prof. Lewis, who is a most successful teacher of music, has charge of the musical department, and has had the young people in training for several weeks for this, the great event of the season. The ladies, who are always active in every good work, are busy making preparations for the grand occasion, by providing the eatables and in selling tickets of admission. The object of the entertainment is to raise money to purchase an organ for the use of the M. E. Church at this place, and I predict a most complete success, for the ladies have taken hold of it in earnest, and "When a woman will, she will, you may depend on it."
And when she won't, she won't—so there's an end on't.

THE STORE

Is doing a good business; and if Grand & Co. don't make money this year, when the prospects of the farmers are so flattering, it will be strange indeed. G. & Co. understand their business thoroughly; and, being fair, honorable dealers, and selling as cheaply as the Los Angeles merchants, it is only natural that they should receive a large share of the public patronage of this rich farming district.

WHO IS "X. Y. Z.?"

He stated in a communication which appeared in your columns, a month or two ago, that one of our School Trustees had resigned. But "X. Y. Z." must be mistaken; for both the Superintendent, McFadden, and Mr. Peck, have asserted in the writer of this article that they have received no resignation from any member of our Board of School Trustees. The matter is not of much consequence, but "X. Y. Z." should be careful in making such statements, as it gave rise to considerable dispute in this School District. Yours, etc.,
A. B. C.

COMPTON, May 13, 1874.

The Mohongo, the largest and finest boat on the coast route, will leave San Pedro on Sunday for San Francisco. Those who have not traveled on this boat say they prefer it to all others, and will go on no other. The officers do all in human power for the comfort of all the passengers. Apply early if you want a state-room, for there will be no vacant berths left by Sunday.

We have the report of a distressing accident which occurred at Spadra yesterday afternoon. Little Billy Bottom, grandson of the well-known hotel keeper of that place, while jumping upon the cars missed his hold in some way and fell under the wheels of the engine tender, which was caught at the knee and terribly crushed. Although the engineer saw the boy fall and reversed his engine at the instant, he could not avert the terrible accident. A telegram was immediately sent to this city for Drs. Stawney and Griffin to come by special train and attend the injured boy, but as they could not be found, Drs. Richardson and Wise supplied their place.

The recent rains have given new life to the crops in Amador county.

To the Afflicted.

Grateful not only for entire relief from terrible suffering of seven years standing but for a perfect cure of internal piles by an operation scarcely more painful than my daily suffering before the operation, I feel it a duty I owe to those similarly afflicted to give this testimonial of the skillful and efficient treatment of Dr. J. H. Leal of Los Angeles.

Dr. Leal's success is more highly appreciated from the fact that several of the prominent physicians of Los Angeles had treated me with out understanding my disease and of course without success. DR. J. H. LEAL, M. D., San Gabriel, March 14, 1874. mh18-2m

Look here, weary woman—there is rest for you!

Steam will do your washing! The modern Elias Washer, just introduced in Los Angeles, is a self-acting machine, and dispels all dread of wash-day. It stops the use of the wash-board; it stops all the hand-rubbing and labor in washing; it neither rubs, nor scrubs, pounds, nor mangles, and therefore neither wears, tears, nor injures the most delicate fabrics. It washes any clothing, no matter how dirty, from the coarsest blanket to the finest lace, in from 20 to 40 minutes. As we are selling the Washers on their own merits, we will deliver them to you for your approval. If they do not perform as represented, you need not keep them. Call and get one on trial, at the DOLLAR STORE, 102 Main street, Los Angeles.
